Aramco - also known as Saudi Aramco - is the world's most profitable company by total profits (pre-tax) per share. According to OPEC statistics, Aramco's net income per share in 2016 was a staggering $130,350, making it the world's most profitable oil company that year. OPEC Statistics provided by OPEC - Saudi Aramco's profits per share were huge due to OPEC's policy of selling crude at around the level of the world's lowest cost producer - the United States - which had a cost of $50 a barrel in 2016. Fearing Saudi Aramco's large role in the world's oil glut, OPEC countries plan to hold talks about potential price cuts as the cartel tries to reshape its role in OPEC. Saudi Aramco - also known as Saudi Arabian Oil Co or Saudi Aramco - is the largest producing company in the world by far, with annual production of around 11.4 million barrels per day in 2017. According to a report by the International Energy Agency, as of 1 January 2017 Aramco ranked as the world's biggest oil and gas producer, followed by Russian State-owned oil company Rosneft with 10.5 million barrels per day. Last year Aramco and Russian company Gazprom agreed to build a pipeline, which will run from the Russian state-owned North Stream natural gas pipeline, through the Baku-Tbilisi-

Kars (BTK) Pipeline, through the Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline, and finally on to the Port of Saudi Arabia. The $7.8 billion project will link up with Aramco
